VC Defend Hamlet Six Hours

Describe Marine Losses Moderate

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — A U.S. Marine company battled for 6 and one half hours against Viet Cong defending a hamlet 15 miles south of Da Nang and killed 61 of the enemy, a U.S. spokesman announced Sunday.

He described casualties among the 235 Marines taking part in the fierce fight Saturday as moderate. Under reporting ground rules, casualties are termed as "Light, moderate or heavy."

The spokesman said the helicopter-borne company of Marines came under mortar and small arms fire while approaching the helicopter landing zone outside the hamlet.

The company then deployed in the hamlet, U.S. headquarters said, and "met sustained resistance from a large number of enemy."

The Marine raid was supported by mortar and artillery fire. U.S. headquarters said the Marine raiding party was helicopter-lifted out of the battle zone before nightfall, six hours and 35 minutes after they launched the raid.

In other ground operations, U.S. forces pushing through jungles of the Iron Triangle north of Saigon reported Sunday that Communist losses rose beyond

Mao Backers Consolidate Position

TOKYO (AP) — Peking radio said Saturday forces loyal to Tse-Tung dealt new blows to their foes both in Army and civilian life. But Japanese reports from the Chinese capital declared that supporters of President Liu Shao-chi fought back in the continuing power struggle gripping Communist China.

According to the broadcast, Marshall Yeh Chien-ying, a member of the Politburo, said the Mao forces had launched "an all-out total offensive against bourgeois reactionaries" and that they have begun "to score a great victory." He conceded that a handful of

Civilian Pressure Ends Raids On Hanoi Area

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hundreds of U.S. missions have been flown over North Vietnam since the dispute over American bombing of civilians erupted a month ago, but no more bombs have fallen near Hanoi.

This and other factors indicate that the fears of some military men have been realized: the Johnson administration has decided to slow down, at least temporarily, the air war over North Vietnam.

The action apparently came in response to the worldwide controversy over the bombings near Hanoi last Dec. 13 and 14, although State Department officials have said repeatedly that the dispute has not affected U.S. bombing tactics against North Vietnam.

The subject is a sensitive one in the Pentagon, where all queries about American bombing tactics have brought this official answer: "We do not discuss targeting."

In private, Pentagon spokesmen argue that poor weather, and not administrative fiat, has curtailed missions near the North Vietnamese capital.

They point out that it now is monsoon season in North Vietnam and heavy cloud banks and rain are reported over Hanoi almost every day. It is U.S. policy that pilots must be able to see their military targets before dropping bombs in areas that are heavily populated.

But the Dec. 13 and 14 missions near Hanoi were staged in what officially was described as poor weather.

On Dec. 13, the daily communique distributed by military headquarters in Saigon reported the attacks near Hanoi and added: "Overcast and fog was (sic) reported over most target areas."

The Dec. 14 communique reported cloudy and rainy weather, "with low ceilings throughout most of North Vietnam."

George Wallace

Odds See Wallace Bid In '68

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Outgoing Gov. George C. Wallace said Saturday the odds are better than even that he will run for president in 1968, but not as a white backlash candidate.

"There isn't any white backlash that I know anything about; that's just a newspaper term," Wallace insisted in an interview as he prepared to turn over his walnut-paneled office and its powers to his wife, Lurleen, the incoming governor.

"There is a strong backlash among the voters all across the country," he continued, "but it isn't against anyone because of race. It is against the idea of a big federal government trying to solve problems that should be solved on the local level."

"It is a backlash against the liberals, the theoreticians, the intellectual morons in Washington who want to control every phase of the people's lives, who think they know better a thousand miles away how to run our affairs than we do."

French-German Talks Fruitful

PARIS (AP) — West German Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger ended his visit to France Saturday with the satisfaction of having patched up relations with President Charles de Gaulle's government.

Both French and German spokesmen declared themselves pleased with the results of Kiesinger's trip, and spoke of a new era in French-German cooperation.

On his return to Bonn Saturday night, Kiesinger told newsmen: "We have succeeded in reactivating the French-German treaty of cooperation in the spirit in which it was signed."

The treaty was signed in 1963 by Konrad Adenauer, then chancellor, and De Gaulle.

Though it was clear there were major limitations to this cooperation, France and Germany agreed to put their major differences aside and work in areas where progress was possible.

One of the differences is the role of the United States in Europe as seen from Bonn and Paris.

The German view is that U.S. presence in Europe is necessary for stability. De Gaulle has been working to diminish U.S. influence on the Continent in the name of a "European Europe."

Spokesmen said De Gaulle and Kiesinger pigeonholed this dispute and agreed on the following points:

—That France, on the basis of its courtship of Eastern Europe, would plead the cause of German reunification with the Soviet Union and Germany's Communist neighbors.

—That West Germany and France would establish a working group to study the technological gap between Western Europe and the United States, and if possible, enlarge the group to include the other four common market countries.

—That Paris and Bonn would work for closer coordination in solving steel production problems. One source said French Finance Minister Michel Debre and his West German counterpart, Franz Joseph Strauss, would meet this week to open discussions on the subject.

—That France and Germany would listen to what Prime Minister Harold Wilson of Britain has to say when he comes to Europe later this month for an anticipated bid for British membership in the Common Market.

Afterwards, the bid would be discussed among the six present members. The Germans have said they will support Wilson's bid. The French are thought to be cool toward it.

ICC Ready To Resume Activities

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — The long dormant International Control Commission on Vietnam, charged with supervising a cease-fire that does not exist, appeared ready Saturday to make a fresh bid to reactivate its administrative machinery.

But officials within the Indian government warned against placing too much significance on a decision by the three-nation commission to have a formal meeting, perhaps at ministerial level, to review Vietnam developments.

"The talks would be mainly designed to review past work of the commission and see how it could improve its role in Vietnam," one government source said.

India is chairman of the commission with Canada and Poland as members. It was set up by the 1954 Geneva convention to supervise a cease-fire in Vietnam following the French-Indochina war.

But for the past two years the watchdog body has said it has not been able to do any proper supervising while there is American bombing of North Vietnam, North Vietnamese infiltration of South Vietnam and fighting and bombing within the demilitarized zone separating the two Vietnams.

However, there is a feeling in official circles in New Delhi that if a break-through is to come in Vietnam in terms of bringing an end to the fighting the commission would be the logical body to help arrange peace negotiations.

Police were holding a woman for questioning. "I cannot name her at this time," said Capt. John R. Lyons of the arson squad.

Four children, all from the same family, suffocated in the blaze Friday night. Late Saturday, firemen found the body of a 42-year-old woman on the second floor. She was identified as Glorvina Youngblood.

Capt. Lyons said, "This was an act of revenge. One woman was mad at another — in the building — because her husband was seeing her. We have established that a woman purchased a can of gasoline at a gas station in the neighborhood."

It was not immediately known if the woman who bought the gasoline lived in the apartment building.

Minor injuries were reported to some 20 persons who leaped to safety from the building.

The dead, all children of Doris Demore, 31, were identified as Ethel, 7; Mathel, 3; Gwendolyn, 2, and William, 11 months. They died of suffocation.

Mrs. Demore was in another apartment when the fire started. She said she smelled smoke and tried to get to the little girls and baby boy in her third-floor apartment, but flames drove her back.

Individual acts of heroism marked the rescue of residents as persons passing by stopped to help.

Russell Sabat and Robert Tonne, Cleveland detectives, said they caught 12 to 15 persons who jumped from the building. Two of the persons they caught were infants dropped from the third floor by a girl.

Five Persons Die In Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A fire that killed five persons in an East Side apartment was "an act of revenge" in a domestic argument, fire officials said Saturday.

Fire Chief William E. Barry said the fire was started by an arsonist.

Police were holding a woman for questioning. "I cannot name her at this time," said Capt. John R. Lyons of the arson squad.

Solons To Probe Effect Of LBJ Road Cutbacks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Jennings Randolph, D-W. Va., said Saturday his Public Works Committee will start digging soon to try to find out the precise effect of President Johnson's highway cutback on all of the states.

Randolph, the committee chairman, told a reporter the cutback order on federal highway grants announced in November left many uncertainties.

The committee may schedule hearings as early as February in order to try to pin down exactly how much the order will reduce the flow of road spending in 1967, he said.

The West Virginian has received numerous complaints from governors and others not only on the 17 1/2 percent cutback but also on what some officials contend is a widely varying impact that the order has on different states.

Randolph said he has discussed the matter with Johnson (Turn To Page Eleven)

Philadelphia Fire Kills 9 In Family

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A father who fell asleep in front of a living room television set awoke before dawn Saturday to find flames swooshing through his home. John Drum dashed futilely into the searing fire to save his family, but died with his wife and seven of their 12 children.

A daughter and two sons, and a next door neighbor's child, were hurt in leaps out of upper floor windows. The falls of the two boys, their clothes ablaze, were broken by a neighbor who caught them on the sidewalk.

Killed in the North Philadelphia tragedy were Drum, 39, a supermarket truck driver; his wife, Dolly, 38; and their children, Danielle, 16; Ann, 12; Mary, 11; Catherine, 7; Leo, 5; Francis, 4, and Donna, 3.

Theresa, 17, suffered leg injuries in her jump from the third floor. Her brothers, William 10, and Daniel 8, suffered serious burns and bruises. They leaped out of a second-floor bedroom.

Nancy Rounds, 14, broke a leg in her jump from the third floor. Two other Drum children were not at home—James, 19, who is in the Army and John, 21, visiting friends.

Policemen said flames engulfed the three-story narrow brick row home at 2533 Parrish St. from top to bottom.

Fire investigators said the fire was apparently triggered by a cigarette Drum was smoking when he fell asleep.

City Fire Marshal Joseph Doyle said the fire started in the chair in which Drum was sitting. Doyle said the chair had burned through the floor and sprung from the cushion were found hanging on pipes in the basement.

Firemen contained the blaze within 30 minutes after reaching the scene—but inside the structure there was only blackened ruins.

Bodies of some of the victims were found in bed, apparently suffocated and then burned as they slept.

Lodge Predicts Fewer American Casualties

EDITOR'S NOTE — Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge is once success is achieved in returning to his post in Saigon. In this exclusive interview, he gives his views on the outlook for 1967, the impact of the bombing of North Vietnamese targets, the results of the American military action in terms of world peace.

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
AP Special Correspondent
WASHINGTON (AP) — Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge predicted recently a downturn in the percentage of American casualties in Vietnam this year.

"The war would be pretty nearly over," Lodge added, "if success is achieved in returning to his post in Saigon. In this exclusive interview, he gives his views on the outlook for 1967, the impact of the bombing of North Vietnamese targets, the results of the American military action in terms of world peace."

Lodge spoke in an interview with The Associated Press prior to his departure for Saigon Saturday after a month in the United States on home leave and consultation.

He met Wednesday with President Johnson. Afterward, he told reporters U.S. forces may win military victory over organized Red troops this year but security," he said. "impress- ment of young males would be by accident but by deliberate, cease and the war would be pretty nearly over."

Here are some of the questions asked Lodge, along with his answers:

Q. What does the bombing of the North accomplish? Does it harm civilians more than the military?

A. The bombing of the North very severely harasses the Viet Cong line of communication whereby it supports its forces which are combatting aggression against South Vietnam. Were this bombing to stop, the Viet Cong would be more aggressive and this would result in killing and wounding many more American troops.

Some civilians are always killed in war. Regretably some civilians are killed accidentally in North Vietnam. That is tragic. But I believe special mention should be made of civilians who are killed in South Vietnam, not by accident but by deliberate, Viet Cong policy. This goes on week after week.

Draft Law Should Be Changed Say Millions

By SEYMOUR M. HERSH
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department, President Johnson's Commission on Selective Service and millions of young Americans and their parents are convinced it's time to change the nation's draft laws. They may get their way this year.

The burden falls to Congress, which must decide by June 30 whether to extend key provisions of the Selective Service law. The issue will get its most thorough hearing since the current law was passed in 1951. Sometime in the next two months President Johnson, his commission's report in hand, is expected to demand, at the least, a revamping of the present system to establish national standards and cut into the autonomy of local draft boards.

Johnson already has made it clear he believes the law needs changing. He established the 20-member commission last summer and ordered it to study exhaustively the problem and come up with some recommendations.

One high committee official said in an interview that much of the commission's actual decision-making has been completed and members now are in the process of preparing a final version of the report.

The official said a key provision calls for a shakeup of the present Selective Service system and the establishment of national standards to reduce inequity.

Still to be decided are two key issues: the Pentagon's demand that the order of draft be reduced so that youngest men get called first and the various proposals for a lottery system to further reduce unfairness.

One fact is indisputable: the present Selective Service system is unfair.

More than 600,000 youths have been drafted since late 1964, but much of the attention has focused on those youths who haven't been drafted.

The debate has produced a new breed of protester—the draft-card burner; strained the present Selective Service System for handling draft appeals; and led to a series of high-court battles over the constitutional rights of conscientious objectors.

There were those youths who fled to Canada to avoid the draft; others flocked to join National Guard and Reserve units; and still others decided to stay in college or go on to graduate school rather than face the prospect of being classified 1A.

An estimated total of 1.8 million 18-year-olds will become eligible for the draft pool this year — the largest number in history.

But draft calls are expected to drop by a third this year. Last week the Pentagon announced a March draft call of only 11,900, more than 50 per cent below the 1966 monthly average.

Adding to the disparity this year will be the Pentagon's new policy of lowering mental and physical standards to permit an estimated total of 100,000 marginally qualified men to enter the armed services.

The military's educational standards have been eased in the past few months to the point at which men with fifth-grade or equivalent educations are considered acceptable.

Critics have charged that this amounts to increasing the chances for lesser-educated youths to get drafted without boosting the chances of the more privileged.

As one means of solving the present draft dilemma, four major alternatives to the draft have emerged.

1. The all-volunteer military. Advocates of this program, who acknowledge it does not have much popular support, envision large military pay increases and improved living conditions that would attract enough young men to meet all military requirements. At a recent draft conference, it was estimated this could be accomplished for $4 billion yearly.

Detractors point out that Pentagon estimates have put the cost of an all-volunteer Army at as much as $17 billion yearly.

Few expect this suggestion to get serious attention from Congress.

2. Universal military training. This suggestion, although recently endorsed by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, also has little popular support. The Defense Department also has estimated it would cost more than $6 billion to provide six months of training for the 1.8 million youths who would theoretically be eligible for the training this year.

3. Compulsory national service. Advocates of this program include Peace Corps Director Jack H. Vaughn, Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz and Sargent Shriver, head of the anti-poverty program. Under it, youths would be given a chance at the age of 18 to volunteer for either military or nonmilitary national service.

Critics argue that compulsory national service would just provide another form of coercion for a society that already is struggling with the draft.

4. The lottery. Insiders say this is the alternative program with the best chance of gaining some kind of congressional sanctions this year. Its backers include Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.; his brother, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

Asians Have Simple Remedies For Pain

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
AP Science Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A swing through Asia discloses a tremendous variety of native treatments for anyone seized by aches and pains.

In Vietnam, there are simple remedies such as two fingers to be used for pinching — an empty peanut butter jar or glass tumbler plus a candle — or a coin held between thumb and forefinger.

In India, there are scores of thousands of practitioners of ancient Ayur-Veda and Unani medicine, of yoga and homeopathy. All have many patients.

In both countries, and elsewhere, there are faithful adher-ents of acupuncture — sticking of pins into the flesh in certain precise patterns to cure varying ailments.

In Vietnam, is is not uncommon to see men or women with bruise marks on their throats, the bridge of the nose, or at the sides of their eyes — bruises produced by pinching a friend repeatedly or by having a friend perform the pinching. The idea is to draw out the pain where it seems to be localized from a sore throat or headache.

Scratching lines on the chest or back or other parts of the body with a metal coin is based on the same concept.

And so is the practice of cupping. The inside of a glass jar or tumbler is heated with a candle and then the tumbler is placed Ayur-Veda, India's ancient science of health and medicine is created as the air cools that was flourishing 4,000 to 5,000 years ago. It was brought to break down, leaving a circular bruise on the skin. Many cups of observation and development may be used in case of general pain, or flu.

Western-trained doctors are doubtful that the bruising and marking really can do any good, other than psychological, but many Vietnamese think it ingenious aids in surgery. One works. Besides, the country has few trained doctors.

India, with 500 million population, is relying on both old and new systems of medicine to look after the health needs of her people.

Homeopathic medicine is being encouraged. Here the concept is of treating disease with drugs that produce similar symptoms as does the disease itself.

The Unani, or Moslem, school of medicine relies mainly on herbs and plants.

So also to a large extent does Ayur-Veda, India's ancient science of health and medicine is created as the air cools that was flourishing 4,000 to 5,000 years ago. It was brought to break down, leaving a circular bruise on the skin. Many cups of observation and development may be used in case of general pain, or flu.

Ayur-Veda flowered in both medical and surgical treatments, with hundreds of herbs and plants prescribed and some ingenious aids in surgery. One practice used large black ants to bite the edges of a wound or perforation with their jaws, while their heads were chopped off to make their bites permanent. This was a forerunner of soluble thread or sutures.

Ayur-Veda later fell into decline, but interest is being revived. One reason is that some of the old herbs and folkore medicines worked, or may represent powerful drugs. One such was Rauwolfia, only recently recognized as one of the most useful drugs for controlling high blood pressure. Now the old medicinals are being carefully screened and examined with high expectations that other valuable drugs can be refined from the medicine of the past.

New Berlin Club Program On Women's Buying Habits

NEW BERLIN — Mrs. Esther Schmidt, Sangamon County's Home Extension specialist, gave an enlightening insight into the buying habits of the modern homemaker, as she addressed the members of the New Berlin Woman's Club January 6, in the Sangamon County fair-building.

Mrs. Schmidt explained much of the increased price paid for consumer goods is due to desire for a more deluxe item or one of higher quality, rather than merely an advance in price of the particular item as many home makers believe.

She outlined the many different appliances required by a homemaker throughout her lifetime, and gave many pointers on how the appliances can better serve the housewife. She also stressed that another five years will again find many changes in our home appliances, particularly in the iron. Mrs. Schmidt was introduced by Miss Irene Lewis of the home life committee.

Miss Betty Sue Sunley, senior at New Berlin High School, who was sponsored at Music Camp by the club last summer, told of her experiences and thanked the club for the opportunity to attend.

Mrs. William Cumby was presented as a new member. Reports were given by the youth committee, Mrs. Ed Molitoris, chairman of the two Christmas parties held for youngsters. The new project, a Christmas party for junior high age, is also considered a success.

The president, Mrs. Ira Lions, announced Mrs. John Parker, now residing in Berlin, has again been secured as baby sitter for small children of club members during the regular monthly meetings. Any member wishing to do so may take her child to the home of Mrs. Parker.

Mrs. Lions stated the club has again been invited to hold a bake sale in conjunction with the annual Pancake and Sausage Supper given by the Men's Community Club on January 28. Each member is asked to cooperate in making the event a success.

Members are reminded that February is annually Gift Month to Veterans, and that personal items may be brought to the club meeting. Contributions toward coupon books will also be accepted.

The Indian affairs committee will be in charge of the February meeting, with Mrs. Walter James as chairman.

Mrs. Raleigh Crawford and Mrs. Robert Long, co-chairmen for the Ward Parties, Jacksonville State Hospital, expressed appreciation for contributions to the Christmas Party. Individual gifts in red net stockings with Christmas trim, were given to each patient. Each stocking contained a comb, hanky, ballpoint pen, tablet, candy bar, gum and mint patties. Sixteen club volunteers assisted in with the party and caroling.

Mrs. Carl Ringer, chairman of the International Affairs committee, reports that the sale of UNICEF materials at Christmastime, to members, totaled $75.80.

Kiwanis Travelogue Jan. 18

"WINDJAMMER TO AUSTRALIA" will be the third in a series of six Kiwanis-sponsored travelogues to be shown during 1966-67 in Illinois School for the Deaf auditorium. Art Erickson, cameraman and producer, will personally narrate the film at 8 p.m. on Wednesday, Jan. 18. Season tickets, good for any six admissions, will be on sale at the door.

The travelogue is a journey reaching halfway around the world from the little-known islands of the wide Pacific to the "Out-Back" areas of Australia. Erickson takes the audience island-hopping aboard the famous brigantine "Yankee"—one of the last of a vanishing breed of proud sailing ships. Places visited include the strange, isolated Galapagos; Pitcairn Island, where descendants of the Bounty Mutiny have lived since 1790; the Society Islands; the Cooks; Tokelau; Solomons; and many others.

In Australia 14,000 miles are traveled by Land Rover along the Eastern Coast and into the dry, barren interior. Central Australia is virtually unexplored. It is the home of a hardy people, many interesting forms of wildlife, and the strange nomadic Aborigine.

In Arnhem Land, the last stronghold of the primitive people, the camera discovers ancient burial grounds and examines magnificent cave paintings of the world's living Stone Age man.

"This presentation is particularly entertaining and educational. Persons of all ages will enjoy this full-color travelogue program!" Ernest Savage, Kiwanis travelogue chairman, says.

L. R. Wilcox, Native Of Greene Dies In Nevada

WHITE HALL—Lawrence R. Wilcox, 52 years old, of Las Vegas, Nevada, died January 7th, at a hospital in that city, after having suffered a stroke at his home.

He was the son of the late Oliver and Orrie Backus Wilcox, and was born east of Roodhouse in 1914. He resided in White Hall for many years and attended the White Hall schools.

He was a member of the Tabernacle Church in White Hall and he was engaged in construction work.

Surviving are his wife Barbara, and two sisters Mrs. Jack Harp and Mrs. Ernest Ornellas, both of White Hall who flew to Las Vegas for the funeral services.

Funeral services were held Wednesday, January 11th at the Brunner Brothers Funeral Home with Rev. Don Loving, pastor of the Red Rock Southern Baptist church, officiating.

Interment was made in the Veterans Division of Woodlawn Memorial cemetery in Las Vegas, Nevada.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman L. Bower observed their 50th wedding anniversary on Thursday, January 12th.

Mrs. Bower is the former Mary Ann Garner, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Garner of Manchester. Mr. Bower is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. George C. Bower of White Hall.

The couple are parents of two children Pearl, wife of Harold McConnell of Granite City, and Eugene Bower of Litchfield. There are three grandchildren.

A LANDMARK FAST DISAPPEARING—The spire atop the former Central Baptist church is doomed. The site is being razed to make way for what some people believe will be a gasoline station. The site has been the location of a church since 1827, and has accompanied three other churches, all on adjoining corners, to make it what Ripley claimed was the only intersection in the world with a church on each corner.

Berea Aid Has Family Dinner

A family basket dinner opened the Berea Ladies Aid meeting held Jan. 6 Mrs. Albert Nall and Mrs. Harold Stewart were hostesses for the event, attended by 15 members and their families.

Mrs. Harold Stewart opened the business meeting and Mrs. Richard Petefish led the group in devotions. Group-singing of the Birthday Song honored Mrs. James Luster, Lucy DeGroot and Loren Stewart.

The aid unit plans to pay for installation of a hand rail on the stairway leading to the church basement.

Mrs. Arthur Roth planned the program which included a series of "Remember" contests. Prizes were won by Ida Nall, Jean Petefish, Irene Robinson and Elizabeth Plinn.

Twenty-two nursery draw-sheets were distributed to members for hemming.

RELICS WILL SURVIVE — Mrs. Delores Thomson examines a piece of stained glass from the Central Baptist church with Les Ankrom, of the Morgan County Builders. Glass, and other parts of the church have either been sold, or salvaged by persons in the community.

Literberry-Arcadia History Told At DAR

Mrs. John May, Regent, presided at the meeting of the Rev. James Caldwell Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, Thursday, Jan. 12.

Use Typewriter For Tax Forms Sensible Request

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — Employers are urged to use typewriters or other business machines in preparing Forms 941, the quarterly return for reporting income tax withholding and social security taxes of employees, Jay G. Philpott, District Director of Internal Revenue for Central and Southern Illinois, said today.

The reason for this request is that the Social Security Administration is using an optical character recognition machine to transfer wage information from the Forms 941 into their electronic data processing system. This "reading" machine which will provide improved service to the public, cannot yet read handwriting hand-printing, or colored inks.

Handwritten returns will be accepted by the IRS, however, Mr. Philpott explained.

Dessert was served in the colonial dining room by the hostesses, Mrs. Everett Cooper, Mrs. Earl Myers, Mrs. Lawrence Mallicoat and Mrs. J. E. Dinwiddie. Mrs. Edgar Anderson poured.

Cake squares, nut meats and coffee or tea were enjoyed. The centerpiece for the tea table was furnished by Baptist greenhouse.

Guests at the meeting were Mrs. Clinton Savage, Mrs. Emmadell Norby and Mrs. Ray D. McCollum.

Devotions were presented by Mrs. Winifred Strawn. Miss Lillian Carter led the pledge and accompanied the singing of the National Anthem. Mrs. C. C. Taylor, secretary, read minutes and Mrs. Robert Mawson, treasurer, gave the financial report.

Following a request by the Illinois DAR, members voted to move the election of officers date from May back to March. The report of the nominating committee will now be made in Feb. Elected to the nominating committee are Mrs. Edgar Anderson, chairman; Mrs. C. C. Taylor and Mrs. Harvey Vortman.

Mrs. Lawrence Mallicoat, chairman of the chili and sandwich benefit to be served at the Congregational church on Tues. Jan. 31, gave a report. Serving will start at 11:30 a.m. and continue through the supper hour.

Review Area Towns Programs of the Chapter this year continue to be of interest as they follow the history of towns and areas surrounding Jacksonville. In the absence of the listed speaker, Miss Laura Petefish, Mrs. Lawrence Mallicoat, presented the prepared program for Miss Petefish on the history of Literberry and Arcadia.

As the auto travels bumper to bumper today the Prairie Schooner traveled to this area, oxen-horns-to-tailgate, bringing settlers to this part of Illinois. Within a year all of the Liter-Arcadia land was claimed and log cabins erected by timbers and streams, as these two things gave them food, lumber, water and fire wood. The land was purchased from the government for $1 to $1.25 an acre. Holding land grant lands in this area were the Liter, Berry, Crum, Henderson and Dinwiddie settlers.

Only three direct ancestors of these people now hold any of the original land purchased by these settlers in the Literberry-Arcadia areas. Only one name is unchanged, Somerville, now Daniel Mallicoat; Henderson land, now Maul, and (J. E.) Dinwiddie, unchanged in name from a part of the original purchase.

The town of Literberry was named from Liter and Berry. The Liter family gave land for the railroad to pass through. The Berry family would only give land if the town of Liter added Berry thus Literberry, but often called Liter by some families.

Third and fourth generations of families still attend the Literberry Baptist church founded in 1868 and the Literberry Christian church founded in 1869. The churches in Arcadia have gone, except one building at the Arcadia Cemetery is used annually for Memorial Day services.

Arcadia was once a thriving town and Lincoln and Douglas stayed at the two Taverns (Inns) during their journeys in the area.

The next meeting of the Chapter will be on Thursday, Feb. 9. Mrs. R. H. Thompson, State Regent, will be the guest speaker.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP)—The great 1967 stock market rally now has finished its second week and has piled up near-record volume.

Turnover this week was 53,369,210 shares compared with 27,418,470 shares in the preceding holiday-shortened four-day trading week. This week's total was the greatest since the record weekly volume of 53.5 million shares in the week ended last April 16.

The Dow Jones industrial average this week advanced 26.39 points to 835.13, smashing through the "triple top" formed at around the 820 level—a barrier to three previous attempts at advance past that line.

The penetration of the 820 line was, in the mind of wall street theorists, a bull market signal, especially since the Dow Jones rail averages already had topped a previous high.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks this week advanced 8.5 points to 309.7, a huge advance but below the 10-point rise of the previous week.

Of 1,596 issues traded, 1,283 issues rose and 229 fell.

President Johnson's State of the Union address Tuesday night was the dominant event for Wall Street which had been betting the President would not recommend a tax increase.

The President's request for a 6 per cent surcharge on corporate and individual income taxes caught the stock market by surprise. The market plunged Wednesday morning, taking a loss of 11.47 points in the Dow Industrials within a half hour of the opening bell.

Thereafter bargain hunters swarmed into the market and picked up stocks at relatively cheap prices. As response to Johnson's speech indicated Congress would be in no hurry to pass his tax request—if approved it at all—the stock market gathered even further strength.

Stocks were boosted also by the President's references to the need for lower interest rates and easier credit, especially in the savings and loan industry.

As the week ended, the market had rung up a string of nine straight daily gains.

Senate GOP Majority To Tackle Hot Item

By LARRY KRAMP

SPRINGFIELD, ILL. (AP) — How the Illinois Senate Republican majority intends to deal with spending proposals by Democratic Gov. Otto Kerner will be revealed in an Appropriation Committee hearing Tuesday on emergency funds.

Senate policy on how to minimize motorcycle traffic hazards will be hammered out in the Highway and Traffic Committee Wednesday.

Kerner will unveil his plans for insurance reform in a special message to the GOP-controlled Assembly. All types of insurance will be affected.

And Sen. Cecil Partee, of Chicago, the Democratic party spokesman on open occupancy, intends to introduce his 1967 version of the bill he succeeded in pushing through the Democratic-dominated House in 1965.

Besides these events, the third week of the 1967 session is likely to see Kerner inviting Republican leaders to confer with him for the first time on a bipartisan approach to overwhelming financial problems.

In his first message to the General Assembly two weeks ago, Kerner promised to call leaders of both parties to a conference on higher education as soon as the Higher Education Board decided on a budget for 1967-69.

Friday, the board added about $600 million for operations to the $400 million it had approved for capital improvements.

An aide to Kerner said the governor would try to set the meeting with party leaders either this week or next.

Speaker Ralph Smith's plan for "bright and early" committee hearings before the House convenes Tuesday will be tested for the first time at organizational sessions.

Legislators are accustomed to starting working days at 10 a.m. instead of the new 8:30 a.m. and to working or playing late.

Senate committee action is being delayed on a Kerner administration proposed housekeeping change on the utility tax which, though minor, turns out to be the first tax increase suggested this session.

The bill would substitute a flat 4 per cent utility tax for the present varying 3 per cent plus rate which is designed to produce no more than a maximum total of $19 million.

A Kerner spokesman, who said the present system is unwieldy and improper, estimated the 4 per cent rate would actually produce about $20.6 million, or a $1.6 million increase.

In the Senate Appropriation Committee hearing Tuesday, bills to be considered include one to pay two-year salaries to senators elected in 1964 but not re-elected in 1966. The election in 1964 was for four-year terms which were cut short in some cases by reapportionment.

The Kerner administration appropriation bills to be dealt with by the Republican majority include a $4.2 million deficiency for commodities at 18 state mental health facilities; $3.3 million for Illinois Teachers College, Chicago; and $972,753 for sewerage improvements at Northern Illinois University, DeKalb.

Another $35,000 item would set up a branch office of the Department of Business and Economic Development at the proposed Western atom smasher site.

Spartans Flying High

Seeded first, North Greene sports an 11-2 mark and claims the Illinois Valley Conference tourney championship among this season's honors. The Spartans, Winchester champs two years ago, tangle with Brown County, the defending champions, in Tuesday night's first game. The Hornets are currently 6-6.

Since the consolidation of White Hall and Roodhouse schools, North Greene has garnered two high finishes at Winchester, the top spot in 1965 and a second place in 1964. The old White Hall school claimed one championship and four runner-up slots, while Roodhouse won the tourney twice and also gained one second place.

The Brown County Hornets, as Mount Sterling high, have four championship trophies to their credit, the most recent coming in 1956.

Good Tourney Background

Monday night's opening game between Griggsville and Carrollton features two teams with disappointing records this season but both of which have admirable records in the Winchester event. The Tornadoes 8-5 this season, have taken top prize three times and have finished in the top four on 16 other occasions. Griggsville last won the tourney in 1964.

The Tornadoes claim three scoring records and share two others in the last seven years of the Winchester Invitational. Prior to 1960, records for the tournament are incomplete. In its championship performance of 1964, Griggsville scored 109 points in one game, 263 in three games, and notched 43 field goals in a single contest to claim modern records in those categories. Also, their 104-83 decision over Winchester that year tops the single game total.

The host Wildcats' 79-72 win over the Tornadoes in 1961 is the high total for a title game.

Runnersup Habit

Carrollton, now 3-7 for this season, has been runnerup at Winchester for three straight years, and claimed two second places and two championships in the 1956-59 period.

In Monday's second contest, the Porta Bluejays from Petersburg, currently 3-8, face the Greenfield Tigers. Greenfield, which has two wins in 11 starts this season, took consolation honors in the tourney in 1961.

Winchester, which takes on the Porta-Greenfield winner at 8:30 Wednesday, finished fourth the last two years in the event. The Wildcats, 5-6 this season, have finished in the top four spots in their own tournament no less than 32 times since the invitational began in 1923.

F. Robinson Signs Pact At $100,000

BALTIMORE (AP) — Frank Robinson, the American League most valuable player and, signed a $100,000 contract Saturday with the Baltimore Orioles.

The 31-year-old slugger suffered only five minutes with Harry Dalton, the club's director of player personnel, before joining a select list of superstars who have reached the six-figure salary bracket.

After a brief chat, the two negotiators wrote on separate slips of paper a figure each had in mind for Robinson's 1967 salary. Robinson was paid an estimated $65,000 last season.

Robinson said the suggestion by Dalton that they exchange the notes took him by surprise, so he deliberately overstated his own figure.

"I felt I was in the defensive position," Robinson said. "So I wanted to be near or above Harry's offer. I didn't want to short change myself."

As a result, Robinson and Dalton were about $25,000 apart on the note exchange. But after Dalton explained his offer, Robinson said, "Where do I sign?"

Off Fabulous Year

In his first American League season, after the Orioles obtained him in an interleague deal with the Cincinnati Reds, Robinson won the triple crown of batting with a .316 average, 49 home runs and 122 runs batted in.

Robinson was selected the American League's most valuable player — the first player ever to win the award in both leagues — and then was voted the outstanding player in the World Series, when he hit two homers which contributed to half of Baltimore's four consecutive victories over the Dodgers.

"Frank was given a great raise in keeping with his great year," Dalton said. "He seemed quite pleased, and I'm pleased also."

The boys' teams had balanced scoring, while the 11-12 year old girls took first and second in all events but one. The next meet will be held in Jacksonville Jan. 21 against Springfield.

Pack Solid Choice Over Chiefs Today

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bart

Starr's passing and a ball-hawking defense make the experienced Green Bay Packers the solid favorites over the explosive Kansas City Chiefs Sunday in the first clash of champions of the National and American football leagues in the Super Bowl.

Ever since the two leagues decided to merge last June, this test of strength has been awaited with great interest. However, it appeared that there would be no sellout of the vast Memorial Coliseum. A crowd of about 70,000 is expected in the 93,000-seat arena.

Resistance to the television blackout in the Los Angeles area and the prices of some of the less desirable tickets, plus the fact that there is no home team involved, were given as some of the reasons for the failure to sell out.

The game will start at 4:05 p.m., EST. It will be beamed across the nation on television and radio by both the Columbia Broadcasting System and the National Broadcasting Co. who are paying a total of $2 million for the rights.

Biggest Payoff in History

The Packers and Chiefs will be shooting for the biggest payoff in the history of team competition with $15,000 guaranteed for each member of the winning team and $7,500 for each loser. As the Packers already have won approximately $8,500 for beating Dallas in the NFL title game, 34-27, they can take home $23,500 each by winning as expected.

Kansas City's share for beating Buffalo in the AFL title game 31-7 was $3,300.39 so each Chiefs could pocket more than $20,000. The highest payoff for a World Series winner was $12,794 by the 1963 Los Angeles Dodgers.

Search Illinois River For 'Suicide Victim'

BEARDSTOWN — Rescue workers, searching for the body of a Springfield man who is presumed to have jumped from the Illinois River bridge at Beardstown, plan to continue dragging operations today.

Police were alerted Saturday afternoon when a pickup truck bearing a Springfield address was found abandoned at the west end of the bridge, on the Schuyler County side of the river. Later, a pair of men's shoes was discovered near the railing, halfway across the bridge.

A note, left in the truck, indicated that the man, tentatively identified as Mark Allen Steward, 32, of 1601½ Loveland Ave., Springfield, intended to commit suicide.

The truck, bearing the name "Mark's Shell Service, Ninth and Cedar, Springfield," was noticed at the end of the bridge as early as 7 a.m. Saturday, police were told. A check at the service station revealed that the business had changed hands recently and that the truck in question does not belong to the present owner.

Cass County Deputy Coroner Carl Wessel said late Saturday that a missing persons bulletin had been issued by state police and that authorities would continue searching for the man.

Wessel also said he had contacted Steward's wife, who described her husband as despondent and said she thought it "quite possible" he had leaped from the bridge.

Member of the Beardstown Rescue Squad searched the river for two hours before darkness fell Saturday and plan to resume operations at 8 a.m. today. Authorities speculated that the man jumped, if he carried out his plan, at a point 50 feet above the river.

Liquor Law And New Sewer Rates Before Council

Proposed changes in the liquor ordinance and first reading of an ordinance establishing rate schedules for sewage system users will be presented for the action of the Jacksonville City Council Monday evening during the regular Monday night session.

Three proposed changes are scheduled for introduction at Monday's meeting. The first amendment to the liquor ordinance would be to extend the fire zone in order for the Knights of Columbus to qualify for a liquor permit.

The second proposed change would permit Class E license holders to open on Sunday at 1 p.m. The change would permit hotels and bowling alleys to offer alcoholic beverages to be sold on Sunday for the first time in Jacksonville for many years.

The third proposed change would permit Class C license holders (package goods only) to operate outside the fire zone. This would exempt package stores from locating inside the fire zone, sometimes known as the "whiskey zone."

The establishment of a rate schedule for sewage system users. The rate, according to city officials will be based upon the cost of $1.5 million in revenue bonds authorized last week.

Would Robert Ripley Believe It Or Not? A Legend Vanishes

Robert Ripley, if he were still alive, probably would still like Jacksonville, but he wouldn't love it.

The famous recorder of the bizarre and strange, the odd and paradoxical, discovered a unique and wonderful thing here many years ago.

He walked around town and came across an intersection at State and Church Streets, and noted that a church had been built on each corner.

He put it in "Ripley's Believe It Or Not," as the only city in the world with a church on every corner of a single intersection.

Everyone believed it. They always did when it was in Ripley's, whether it was true or not.

Some skeptics said that a city intersection somewhere in England also had a church on every corner.

Sons Spread Word
But local and loyal Jacksonville citizens didn't care, and sons of this city carried historical and legendary Jacksonville's bid for immortality to the far corners of the world. "Where's Jacksonville?"

"It was in 'Ripley's Believe It Or Not' as the city with a church on four corners of an intersection." Some might have laughed when they said it.

If Jacksonville was indeed the only city in the world with a church on every corner of an intersection—it is no more.

The Central Baptist church has relocated on West Lafayette west of the fairgrounds, and even its name has been changed. It is now Westfair Baptist Church. The old church was on the northeast corner.

Being Razed
The old church building is being razed for commercial purposes.

The First Baptist church was razed by fire last fall. Located on the northwest corner, plans to build again at the same site or to relocate are unknown. The church congregation will hold a meeting next Wednesday to form a building committee to study the problem.

Jacksonville's legend as the city of churches and ferris wheels is minus one legend.

The steeple of the Central Baptist church will come down soon, probably Tuesday, putting a symbolic final stamp on an end of an era.

What happens to Chamber of Commerce publicity on a town after it loses a legend?

"We Knew It"

"We knew this was happening some time ago," says Chamber of Commerce Executive Secretary Don Atkins. "We're about out of literature that publicizes the four corners. We put it in our industrial brochure, but we'll have to dispense with that part of it."

"We naturally won't publicize it anymore, but our material has dwindled. It has been almost completely distributed, but I guess we'll have to change our remaining supply. The expense of changing will be almost nil."

Two churches, Grace Methodist church, located on the southwest corner, and Trinity Episcopal church, on the southeast corner, will remain.

Grace Methodist was founded in 1850, when the first church was built. Today the congregation worships in its third building.

Mother Church
Trinity Episcopal church was built originally in 1833, the oldest in the state of Illinois, and is known today as the "Mother" Episcopal church in the state.

Three churches were built, the last in 1918, after a fire razed the old church and Jacksonville high school.

Central Baptist church, being torn down, was acquired 14 years ago from the First Presbyterian church. The church was built in 1885.

The First Baptist church was originally built in 1832, and was known as the first Protestant church building in the state of Illinois equipped with pews.

He spoke of the life of the Philippine women and their position in society, the rights and privileges for the female sex in the Islands.

The business meeting for the club will be held at 7:30 p.m. Jan. 23rd at the home of Ruth Howard. A special request is made for all members to attend.

186 Farmers, With 12,880 Sows, Attend 'Pig School'

A HIGHLY SUCCESSFUL swine seminar dealing with all phases of pork production and marketing was held Thursday at the Blackhawk restaurant. It was arranged by the U. I. Extension Service and was attended by 186 farmers from 13 counties.

The farmers registering have 12,880 sows and bred gilts on hand. Although there are many fewer hog raisers in the state now than there were 20 years ago, Illinois is soaring in pork production, with the numbers and tonnage zooming up 20% in the past 10 years, while such major producers as Iowa, Indiana and Ohio are just holding their own.

Some of these hog enterprises are almost unbelievable. One Brown county man present has 500 sows; four men from Pike county have over 400 each. The first photo shows a section of the attentive crowd that heard specialists in nutrition, housing, disease and marketing. Harry Wright, second photo, is the farm adviser in Pike county and he shared with George Trull, Morgan county farm adviser, in the conduct of the meeting. The third photo shows Dick Carlisle of the animal science department as he explained results of tests showing that corn grown on land with low nitrogen levels is just as nutritious as puts just as many pounds on hogs — as corn grown on land with as much as 800 pounds of nitrogen. These tests have ended a long, and often heated, discussion on the subject. The final picture shows A. J. Muehling, agricultural engineer, as he answers a question on ventilation of insulated farrowing houses. In his discourse on swine diseases Extension Veterinarian, H. N. Becker said that a great stride had been made in the control of intestinal parasites through the use of new chemicals. The new chemical, Atgard V, made by the Shell oil company, is far superior to piperazine which has been the hog man's standby for years. "That 'V' stands for veterinary," Becker said. "As of now, it can be purchased only through veterinarians. But if agricultural economics department said he felt that farmers should have any thoughts of ex-widow will marry a man who they truly love hogs and must have them around the place." Rural Pastors, Laymen To Meet In Urbana

"The Changing Agricultural Scene" is the theme for the 37th annual Town and Country Church Institute, Jan. 30 — Feb. 1 at the Illinois Union, Urbana.

Formerly named the Rural Pastors and Lay Leaders Short Course, the Town and Country Church Institute is a cooperative effort of many Illinois churches and the University of Illinois Cooperative Extension Service to provide continuing education and in-service training for pastors and laymen.

At an opening luncheon session on Monday, Joseph Ackerman, managing director of the Farm Foundation in Chicago, will discuss the relation of the church to agriculture. Harvey J. Schweitzer, U. of I. rural sociologist, will speak on farmer's movements, past and present.

Two U. of I. professors will describe the changing agricultural scene at the Tuesday morning session. They are C. L. Folse, rural sociologist, and L. H. Simerl, outlook and policy extension specialist. Robert G. Spitzer, U. of I. professor of agricultural economics, will outline how agricultural policy is developed.

HOW COLD IS IT? The temperature is not the only factor to be considered when we want to know how cold we feel. Wind velocity has a great deal to do with the chilling effect of temperature.

The problem of how much heat the human body will lose under given conditions of temperature and wind has been studied for some time. Paul Slupe, who accompanied Adm. Byrd to the Antarctic, and the Medical Research Laboratory of the U.S. Army are among those contributing to the research.

The Wind-Chill Index is the result of this and other work. Here is a table which illustrates its effect.

Temp. 20°F. Chill Index or Equivalent

Wind in M.P.H. Temperature

10 M.P.H. — 2°F

20 M.P.H. — 9°F

35 M.P.H. — 20°F

FROM THE CORN CRIB

An elderly lady was visiting the West Coast for the first time. She was impressed with the variety of shrubs and trees. Visiting one of the parks, she saw an unfamiliar tree. "What kind of tree is that?" she asked the grounds-keeper. "That's a fig tree," he answered. Looking horrified, the lady exclaimed, "Good heavens! I thought the leaves were much larger."

Illinois Farm OUTLOOK

CORN OUTLOOK CHANGES; 1966 CROP SETS RECORD

The corn situation and outlook have been changing again. The rate of corn use has been lower than was reported earlier. The 1966 crop set a new record. Exports are slow. Livestock and poultrymen are being squeezed between high costs for corn and low prices for their products.

Let's begin with the revised estimate of the 1966 crop. In December of each year the USDA issues a publication called "Crop Production, Annual Summary." This publication always includes revisions of the crop estimates for the previous year, as well as estimates for the year just ending.

The revised estimate of the 1966 corn crop was 4,034 million bushels, 87 million less than the figure that had been in use during practically all of the past year. This change indicates that the amount of corn used for feed in 1965-66 was 87 million bushels less than was previously calculated. (There wasn't as much corn in the crib as we thought, so when it was empty we had fed less than we thought.)

It has also been suggested that CCC stocks of corn at the beginning of the 1965-66 marketing year were not so large as was reported at the time. If that is true, then the rate of corn use was correspondingly smaller during the marketing year ended last October 1.

Less CCC Corn
We have seen no revisions of CCC stock figures. It seems reasonable to suppose, however, that there was some shrinkage of stocks kept in CCC bins over the years. Much of this shrinkage might not have become apparent until the bins were emptied.

When the estimate of the 1965 crop was revised downward, it left the 1966 crop as the biggest ever produced. The Annual Summary report listed the 1966 corn crop at 4,103 million bushels. This figure is 26 million bushels less than the estimate in November, but it is 19 million more than the revised estimate of the 1965 crop.

The total supply available for this marketing year now appears to be about 4,950 million bushels, 6 percent less than last year. Another comparison shows that supply for this marketing year is 11 percent more than the amount used and exported in the year ended October 1.

Exports of corn from October 1 to December 9 totaled only 105 million bushels, 31 percent less than a year before. There are various reasons: Much of the corn now being exported is of poor quality. Exports of sorghum grain totaled 55 million bushels, up 36 percent from last year. Other countries have larger feed supplies this year.

Cattle feeders are getting perhaps 70 to 90 cents a bushel for the corn fed to cattle now being marketed. Broiler producers aren't getting much

LAW on the farm

JOINT TENANCY—IS IT FOR YOU?

Among Illinois farmers, joint tenancy is a popular method of holding title. Property held by two or more persons with the right of survivorship is held in joint tenancy. When one joint tenant dies, the surviving tenant immediately becomes sole owner. The property is not part of the deceased person's estate, so probate and administration are avoided; costs and delay are reduced.

Because of this survivorship feature, joint tenancy has been called a "poor man's will." It is to be distinguished from tenancy in common where the interest of each tenant passes by his own will or by the inheritance laws.

Does joint tenancy appear attractive to you? Then let's consider the drawbacks.

If your estate is worth over $100,000, it may be subject to double death taxes before your children receive it. Suppose husband and wife as joint tenants own property valued at $150,000. The property was purchased by the husband. When he dies, the federal estate tax applies to the full value of the property. However, his estate is entitled to a marital deduction and the tax due is only $1,050. Now the wife owns all of the assets — $150,000 in property. When she dies, there is no marital deduction and the estate tax due is $17,500. The total tax in the two estates is $18,550.

Savings Possible
If title were held by husband and wife as tenants in common with each — by will — giving the other a life estate with a remainder to the children, the tax in each estate would be only $1,050. The estate tax savings would be $16,450.

If the husband dies first, the burden of management is thrust immediately upon the wife. If the wife is not experienced in farm management, this could pose serious problems.

If the wife is already in a high income tax bracket, the additional income — producing property will increase her tax liability.

If there are no children, it is possible that all of the property may come from one side of the family and end in the other side.

Joint tenancy provides a simple method of transferring property at death, but some families may find it more desirable to hold title in a different way. Some alternatives are these:

- Use tenancy in common.
- Each spouse holds part of the property separately.
- Use life estates and remainders.
- Use a trust.

Since the value of many farms far exceeds $100,000, joint tenancy presents a serious problem. If you find yourself in the high asset class, see your lawyer about other methods of holding title. He can help you work out an estate plan to fit your needs.

BRIMFUL and running over

By Jim Brim

Do you have trouble filling in check stubs? Too rushed? Find a bank or a printer that will prepare a checkbook for you that will make a non-negotiable copy of the check as you write it. This serves as your stub.

Have you started your 1967 record keeping?

Time spent in record keeping is good business. Have you made plans for completing your tax return for 1966? This is worth some planning and careful thought. Be sure you have complete records.

When you are looking at your records, evaluate your farm enterprise. Determine where the leaks were and determine to plug them.

Don't wait, vaccinate.

It never fails that when a disease slows down and seems to be under control livestock breeders stop vaccinating against it. Soon, enough have done this that an outbreak occurs and many animals are lost. This has happened in hogs recently in some areas with outbreaks of cholera. It can happen with other diseases. Come to think of it maybe with people, too, if we get over confident about not having some disease.

Now you should . . .

- Check on the children's school progress.
- Read.
- Plan your summer vacation.
- Top out hogs.
- Drill over seed catalogues. Look at new varieties.
- Check your furnace filters. Clean or change.
- Eat popcorn.
- Dress appropriately.

Take a good look around the house now that you are spending more time in it this winter and consider how to make it more useful and enjoyable. Take a good look at the kitchen. Is it efficient?

Things could be worse. Suppose they published our achievements every day like those of a baseball player! Sign on refrigerator door: STOP — THINK THIN.

Arrange Grain Conditioning Workshop

What's new in grain conditioning and storage will headline the Grain Conditioning Workshop set for Jan. 17-19 in Champaign.

The three-day conference is sponsored by the University of Illinois agricultural engineering department and the Illinois Farm Electrification council. Proceedings start Tuesday at 10 a.m. in the Champaign Ramada Inn. University and industry specialists and farmers will discuss the latest techniques of grain handling and storage.

"Ten years ago grain conditioning meant grain drying," points out program chairman E. F. Oliver of the U. of I. "Now it also includes cooling, aeration, stirring, dewatering and refrigeration."

"The conference is a real education for anyone in the grain business," reports grain dryer manufacturer B. C. Mathews of Crystal Lake. "Even though I don't always agree with everything said, I learn what the experts and others in the business are thinking about grain conditioning. I especially like the problem solving sessions."

A $15 registration fee covers tuition and the Wednesday evening banquet.

Farm Records, Welding Classes At New Berlin

NEW BERLIN — Farm welding and farm records courses are to be offered as evening adult education classes at the New Berlin High School. An organizational meeting, with registration, will be held at 7:30 p.m. Monday, Jan. 16, in the gymnasium. All persons interested in taking one or both of the courses should attend.

Edward Molitoris, vocational agriculture teacher, will instruct the classes which will meet once each week, lasting two weeks. Men and women of the Community Unit District No. 16 are eligible to participate, and a registration fee of $5 will be charged for the entire course.

Welding classes will last three hours each, and a maximum of ten persons may enroll.

The records classes will last two and a half hours each, and a minimum of ten students is required, with no maximum.

JUNIOR 4-H LEADERS TO MEET WEDNESDAY

A 4-H junior leader workshop will be held Wednesday evening at the Extension Center on East Morton road, beginning with a chili and pie supper at 6:30 p.m.

State Pork Producers Association To Meet Here This Saturday

Hog raisers from all sections of the state will be in Jacksonville Saturday. There'll be between 400 to 600 of them, depending on the weather, when the annual meeting of the Illinois Pork Producers association is held at MacMurray College.

Howard Schone, Chapin, and Richard DeOrnellas, route 3, are co-chairmen of the committee on arrangements.

Other committee members are Darrell Lasswell of Washington, Stanley Klaus of Carlinville, Dick Sims of Macomb and Dick Carlisle of the U.I. animal science department.

The theme of the one-day conference will be "Pork Production — A Progressive Changing Industry."

Registration begins at 8:30 in the McClelland Dining Hall on the campus, says Louis Dyson of Virden, association president. Following the morning business session in the Chemistry Building, a panel of three Illinois hog farmers will discuss ideas from their recent trip to see European swine facilities. The panelists are Jack Rundquist, Albert Gehlbach, and Russell Jeckel. Art Muehling, University of Illinois agricultural engineer who also made the tour, will serve as moderator.

This panel promises to be most interesting. At the area swine seminar held Thursday at the Blackhawk restaurant Muehling showed a few of the photographs he made in Europe. All of them, particularly those of stall confinement handling where the sows are tethered, were of special interest to the 186 hog raisers present.

Through this system a very large number of sows may be handled in a very small space.

Sessions Of Interest
The noon dinner speaker is Dan Murphy, a communications specialist of Des Moines, Iowa.

Afternoon workshop sessions on health and disease, marketing, and selection and breeding are scheduled. Chairmen will be Dr. Don Pickard, Brice Kirtley, and Harry Russell, all of the University of Illinois.

The health session will deal with mastitis-metritis, cholera, and atrophic rhinitis disorders. Speakers include Dr. Roger Grant of Wyoming, Ill.; Dr. Paul Doby, Illinois Department of Agriculture; and Dr. Neil Becker, University of Illinois.

An election of officers was held with the following being elected: Edgar Robinson, Jr., chairman; Arnold Thornley, vice chairman; Bernard Stene-meyer, Jr., secretary; Virgil Beauchamp, treasurer; Thomas May, district director; Leroy Hamman, trustee for three years.

Letters From Vietnam

By Christine Hembrough

Last week I told you some of the firsthand descriptions of Vietnam I have received from servicemen for this column, and promised you some more accounts this week — here they are.

There are all sorts of wild animals running loose in Vietnam. There are monkeys, tigers, panthers, rabbits, and elephants. Most any animal you'd find in the zoo in America you'd find running loose in Vietnam.

If the U.C. people do eat, they usually eat rice and fruit. That is about all they have.

That is about all the information I received this time. I certainly don't think that I would like to be in Vietnam. Reading information like this in newspapers and history books it sometimes is rather hard for me to believe. Even reading the letters it still sounds almost unbelievable that any country could be as backward and poor as Vietnam — yet it is true!

Actually no matter what I say or what anyone else says about Vietnam, it is still hard for us to realize these terrible facts. None of us could ever know, unless we saw this for ourselves. Probably some of the male readers will be seeing this but we girls will just have to depend on other people's words, unless we become nurses or take on some other service job that may take us abroad.

Calling you — Do you have a question about Vietnam, or

Let's Go Birding

Lonely Waters

By Emma Mae Leonhard

It was a gray December 17 morning. Lake Jacksonville stretched out under the sky, its quiet gray water as gray as the clouds above it. The leafless trees and bushes which lined the irregular shore made gray jagged pencil marks in the landscape.

Since December had been so warm the lake was free of ice, we had chosen to look for ducks there. The duck-hunting season had been closed a week before; by that time ducks should feel more confidence in man. In fact, we were fairly confident that we would find some.

Confidence, however, doesn't produce birds, especially ducks. For a short time we scanned the entire lake and the sky above it. We saw no ducks; in fact, no birds, not even Crows nor Starlings. Thinking that the grayness might be concealing some non-descript ducks in their drab winter plumage, we examined the expanse of water more carefully with our binoculars. We saw only a few stationary decoys and no ducks. Silence and inactivity enveloped us.

Just as we were on the point of leaving we gave the far bank of the lake a farewell examination. On one spot of the gray water a darker gray form emerged. It looked like a pygmy submarine. Or was it a floating piece of wood?

It was neither. It had a long body, a head, and a straight stout bill. It was a low-lying dark gray bird—undoubtedly a Common Loon.

Then for some unidentified reason it raised its short wings and flapped them with great effort until its heavy body rose just above the water and ran along the surface for only a short distance. Luckily for us it was far enough for us to catch a glimpse of its white throat and under parts. Once its white breast flashed from the crests of the wavelets before it sank low into the water again. Now we knew that it was our belated Common Loon. Loons leave their northern nesting homes in autumn and begin to move southward in September, but some remain on the northern lakes until the ice comes, as our Loon was doing.

Loons are also rather solitary and silent in their autumn migration. So was our Loon. One lone Loon and one gray lake in a gray setting made for us an early winter scene. Our Loon did not utter a cry or yodeling wild laughter. There was no sound, no companion. There were only gray lonely waters and a lone gray Loon, all enrap in silent loneliness.

THREE-MILE LIMIT

The principle of the "three-mile limit" was first proclaimed by the 18th-century Dutch jurist, Cornelius Van Bynkershoek. This was in 1703, when cannon could shoot a maximum of three miles, hence the three-mile limit.

GEMINI'S RECORD

RENDEZVOUS IN SPACE

The illustration above shows one of the most dramatic moments in the Gemini program — the meeting of two manned spacecraft in orbit on December 15, 1965. This feat will not be repeated until the third manned Apollo mission late this year.

In twenty months Project Gemini put twenty men into space and successfully bridged the gap between Projects Mercury and Apollo. As news commentator Walter Cronkite said, "Mercury proved man could stay in space. Gemini proved what he could do there."

Two - Week Flight
Gemini proved that two astronauts could survive and work in the cramped quarters of a small spacecraft for up to two weeks. This was the Gemini 7 flight from December 4 to December 18, 1965. Gemini also proved that two space craft can be joined in space and operated as one unit, with Gemini 10 July 18, 1966.

This was perhaps one of the most important contributions of Gemini. As astronaut Lovell explained, "Rendezvous is the crux of the Apollo program. Without it we just don't have an Apollo program."

Working outside the spacecraft proved a little more difficult than the engineers had expected. However, on Gemini 12, November 13, 1966, astronaut Aldrin showed that by properly pacing himself and using the right restraints, an astronaut could successfully work in space outside his ship.

20 With Space Experience
In the process of making these accomplishments the Gemini program also built up a team of experienced astronauts for the Apollo program. Now seven astronauts have flown flights. Rendezvous was accomplished on the last seven Gemini flights, with docking on four of these. All of the Gemini astronauts have maneuvered their spacecraft in orbit.

The Gemini program also made one unlooked for accomplishment. It proved that the safety precautions taken were adequate when emergencies arose. When an umbilical plug dropped off during the second launch attempt of Gemini 6, on December 13, 1965, the Malfunction Detection System shut down the rocket safely.

Later, on March 16, 1966, when Gemini 8 had to make an emergency landing at the end of its sixth orbit the forces in the alternate recovery area proved they could recover the astronauts and their spacecraft as well as the main recovery force.

One thing Gemini was unable to prove was the value of the self-contained backpack Astronaut Maneuvering Unit. It was carried on both the Gemini 8 and 9 flights. However, astronaut Scott was unable to try it out because Gemini 8's flight was cut short. On Gemini 9 astronaut Cernan had to give up trying to don the back pack, on June 5, 1966, when his visor fogged up. A scheduled third try at using the Backpack on Gemini 12 was dropped to give astronaut Aldrin more time to evaluate the difficulties of working in space.

It is little wonder then that Jock was highly pleased moments later to find himself riding in the front seat of a car with the pleasant looking man. It was nice to sit up here where he could view the sprawling country side. The snow-covered mountains, the rolling hills dotted with grazing sheep and the peaceful looking valleys. He had no idea, of course where he was headed, but he enjoyed every minute of the long drive. It was good to feel that he was in the hands of someone he could trust.

Finally they stopped at a trim looking cottage behind a white fence back in a valley some distance from the main road. And as they alighted from the car and started to the house a friendly looking woman and some small children came running out to make a big fuss over the silky-haired collie. Everybody seemed highly pleased with him, and in that moment he sensed that he'd found a new home. A home among friends where he would receive kind treatment and affection, yet there was still a longing for his old master.

SHEEPHERD'S DOG

By John Rankin

Part 3: Captive

Oh how Jock yearned to hear his master's kindly voice. To feel the gentle touch of his gnarled fingers along his back, and to see the look of understanding in his faded eyes.

At a station stop the next day Jock was transferred from the train to a truck and hauled across town to a large building and placed in a kennel where he saw more dogs than he'd ever seen in his life. Bird dogs, cockers, shepherds, collies and hounds as well as other species were quartered there.

Most of them were friendly and eager to get acquainted. Jock soon discovered. And since dogs have a way of communicating with each other he learned that none of them knew why they had been brought to this place, and that each had been the victim of much the same mysterious sort of misfortune he himself had experienced.

A big well-dressed man that seemed to be in charge of things strutted in and out of the place looking the dogs over and giving orders to the other men. And even though he had a ready smile for everybody and appeared friendly toward the dogs, there was something about him they didn't trust. Somehow they sensed that underneath the outward appearance of a warm-hearted and gentle disposition lay something cold, harsh and sinister.

One day a strange man stopped by Jock's kennel to look him over and instinctively he knew he'd found a friend. Something about this newcomer reminded the friendly collie of his old master, Jose, only he

LEARNING

By Mary Pence Claywell

No one should ever, wisdom, spurn,
We NEVER are too OLD to LEARN;
At six . . . or sixty . . . it's the same.
There still is WISDOM, to be gained;
And he who QUILTS, and will not TRY,
Quite SATISFIED to just GET BY,
Will CHEAT HIMSELF of MANY things,
And reap the SORROW . . . ignorance brings:
God Counsels in a Loving Way . . .
"Get Wisdom," child, we hear Him Say
To each of us, and then we hear "Get understanding," loud, and clear;
And, as we strive to LEARN, we see
That LEARNING, Lord, RANKS HIGH, WITH THEE.

Can South Vietnamese Fight?

By TOM TIEDE
SAIGON, Vietnam — (NEA) — The local government has recently constructed a large statue in the center of the capital: it depicts two combat soldiers, one leaning into the other. Some Americans here think it's fitting.

It is, to them, the exact replica of an allied attack in this war: A GI trying to push a Vietnamese rifleman up to the front.

Other Yanks, though, disagree.

They insist the front figure is the GI, while the Vietnamese trooper has been purposely carved in the rear so he can hide.

In either argument the point is clear. Growing numbers of U.S. servicemen have shrinking faith in both the reliability and the responsibility of the South Vietnamese militia.

"They simply don't much like to fight," says a former U.S. Army adviser. "I remember being with one unit in the Delta and . . ."

And?

"Don't use my name in this story."

Of course not.

"Anyway, it was late at night and we were on patrol. All of a sudden a bunch of bugles began blaring loudly from our front."

Viet Cong?

"Yes. They had a broadcast system hooked up and it was scary as hell. They told my Vietnamese unit to turn around and go home."

"The unit talked it over. They turned around and went home. The incident is not isolated. The 750,000-man nationalist armed force here is bloated with procrastinators whose sleepy-eyed theory of warfare is to never do today what can be put off until tomorrow — especially physical combat."

Admits one Viet officer: "Our way is to be slow and cautious, not fast and rambunctious. Tomorrow is tomorrow either way."

Adds another: "We, too, would like to see the war end rapidly. But we want more to be still alive when it finally does."

The result of this kind of sentiment has been predictable — impatient U.S. troops are fighting more and more of the war — and the native armies less and less.

And, in truth, it is probably a merciful evolution at that. Poorly led, poorly fed Vietnamese soldiers have suffered mightily in the field. They are only so-so soldiers and the enemy knows it.

Often, for example, the Viet Cong have been able to pick whom they wish to fight — a United States outfit on, say, one side of a river, or a Vietnamese unit on the other.

The Yanks will have 800-round-per-minute M-16 rifles, armor-penetrating M-40 machine guns, grenade-lobbing M-79 hand tubes, helicopter support, artillery support and jet fighter back-up.

The Vietnamese, conversely, will have World War II rifles, hand-me-down automatic weapons and shaky, often corrupt, leaders.

The enemy's choice is obvious. And the Vietnamese get pasted.

But even with such handicaps, a large part of the Viet military inefficiency is indefensible. Central control is weak and far-flung officers often are nasty little war lords of their own domains. Dishonesty is so rampant that some commanders even pocket part of the government insurance allowed survivors of dead men in their outfits.

Rank and favor can be purchased.

Desertion reaches 9,000 a month.

And for many the army is an 8-to-5 business.

All of this, to say the least, rankles some Americans serving here. They weary of seeing hatless, shoeless, rumpless Vietnamese soldiers walking the avenues. They tire of witnessing whole camps of Viet still snoozing while they themselves helicopter out to war.

"In some ways though," says a U.S. sergeant, "I can't blame them."

He smiles and adds: "I'd like somebody else to fight my war, too."

God Doesn't Punish, But Saves: Rev. Baum

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Biblical language sometimes pictures God as an angry judge who punishes the wicked. But many theologians today maintain that this misrepresents God.

"God does not punish, but saves," says the Rev. Gregory Baum, a Roman Catholic scholar.

Although the Biblical imagery conveys a basic truth about the inevitable consequences of evil, he says, "God does not impose punishment. It is man himself who is the author of his punishment."

Many scriptural portrayals of God, as angry, jealous, or even as repenting and changing his mind are used to simplify a "divine message which we miss altogether if we interpret the terms literally," Father Baum says.

Some conservative churchmen, however, hold to literal interpretations.

Father Baum, of St. Michael's College, Toronto, a theological adviser at the Second Vatican Council, writes in the current "The Ecumenist" that many Christians "regard God as a judge who punishes."

They often look on Him not as "the author of salvation and the source of life," but rather as "a distant onlooker, a scrupulous judge, approaching them as an accuser," he says.

However, he adds, the "central Biblical theme of Divine justice brings out that God is one who intervenes as savior in the lives of men," not as a punisher.

This over-all emphasis, Father Baum says, is pointed up not only in the New Testament but also by the later prophets of the Old Testament.

They "were quite conscious that they spoke of God in a poetic way," he says. "They realized that their words would be misunderstood if taken literally. For this reason they emphasized how different God is from man."

However, to say that God "always acts as savior" does not run counter to the church teaching "about the judgment men must face after they die," Father Baum points out.

"The disorder generated by sin deforms the personality of the sinner; hence, when after death he is made to face what he really is, the punishment comes upon him as the ultimate consequence of his own sinful ways," Father Baum says.

As for the "Fear of God," described in the Bible as the beginning of wisdom, Father Baum says this means the reverence and awe that is due an all-holy God, but it also can mean a less lofty but God-inspired fear of punishment.

"This fear of the punishment for sin is not a fear of God — for God is always savior — but fear of the ineluctable consequences of sin which will eventually catch up with us and be our punishment," Father Baum writes.

He says that when the Bible speaks of God as judge, it is His Word "which like a double-edged sword penetrates deeply into the conscience of man. God's Word reveals to man his faults and failings."

17 Travel Clubs Own Their Own Airplanes

By J.W. DAVIS

WASHINGTON (AP)—A few years ago no one ever heard of a travel club that owned its own plane and flew members all over the world, at bargain rates. Today there are at least 17 of them.

The daddy of them all is the Emerald Shillelagh Chowder and Marching Society, Inc., of Washington and Fairfax, Va. The 1,500 members can choose a variety of weekend excursions or extended vacations at low cost.

For example: Bermuda $58 roundtrip, Quebec $35, Europe $225, Hong Kong and Japan $491.

To be a member, taking trips like these, costs $188 the first year and $57.60 each year thereafter, plus the shared cost of miles actually flown, just over 2 cents a mile per person.

IMPORTANT MEETING TO All State Employees ON Workmen's Compensation AND Occupational Diseases Act

TUESDAY, JANUARY 17th, 7:30 P.M.

K OF C HALL—ACROSS FROM POST OFFICE. JACKSONVILLE, ILL.

If you are injured on the job do you know what benefits are due you? Would you know what to do to get these benefits?

Attend an open meeting providing information about this, conducted by Mr. Jason Gesmer, Chicago, an attorney specializing in this field. A full explanation will be given and any related questions will be answered.

FREE ADMISSION — ALL ARE WELCOME ROOM FOR ALL.

THE MEETING SPONSORED BY, ILLINOIS STATE EMPLOYEES LOCAL #38, affiliated with AMERICAN FEDERATION OF STATE, COUNTY and MUNICIPAL EMPLOYEES, AFL-CIO

It's a nonprofit organization, like a neighborhood swimming pool, only bigger.

A committee lays out a schedule, and members sign up for the trips that appeal to them. It's all on a first-come first-served basis for the 37 seats available each flight.

The president of the society is Dr. Robert Ware, an enthusiastic traveler who spends so much time on club business that "practicing medicine has become just a sideline for me."

Dr. Ware noted that with 87 passengers aboard, there is bound to be some differences of opinion—"some might want a cocktail party, some are teetotalers, some want to play poker, some want to read."

Drinking, he said, has been no problem at all. "People bring their own liquor. We strongly suggest the airline rule of a two-drink limit."

Catered meals are served by stewardesses who are paid by the trip. Some of the stewardesses are club members who used to work for airlines.

A full-time pilot, Capt. Tom Latta, is employed, and so is a full-time flight engineer. Basically, the society's plane, called "The Shillelaghliner"—is subjected to the same safety and inspection rules as planes operated by airlines.

The society was able to get its ship, a four-engine DC 7B, because it was one of the big piston planes that became surplus to National Airlines when National bought a fleet of jets in 1964. The cost was $100,000 and the founders figure they got a $2.5-million bargain.

In helping groups in other cities get started, the Emerald Shillelagh Society urges that the founding fathers include men with a background in aviation and flight maintenance, such as its own Capt. Latta.

Latta is now president of the National Association of Community Flying Clubs.

Moore Heads Schuyler NFO

RUSHVILLE—Kenneth Moore, Jr. was elected chairman of the Schuyler County National Farm Organization at a meeting held recently.

Other officers are Karl Luthy, vice chairman; Raymond Demaree, secretary; Robert Brown, treasurer; Ace Waymack, district director; and Paul Wender, trustee for three years.

Ralph Payne was elected chairman of the 1967 meat board. Members of the board are Cleo Peterson, Karl Luthy, Gene Hulvey and Gene Clayton. Glenn and Wilma Young were named publicity co-chairmen.

Sunshine Club Meets

Mrs. Lucy Gragg was hostess Jan. 10 to members of the Sunshine Club. Refreshments were served to 10 members and one guest, Mrs. Opal Dadds of Frederick.

Shower Honoree

Mrs. Mary Lou Campbell was guest of honor at a pink and blue shower held Jan. 9 at the Pings Pantry in Rushville. Hostesses were Mrs. Volta Stambaugh, Mrs. Hazel Wells, Mrs. Joyce Thompson and Mrs. Marla Reeves.

West had lots of problems with today's hand. To start with he didn't know if he should pass or bid one, three, four or five clubs. We can't find fault with his selection of a three-club call although we would prefer to start with one club only to allow for the possibility of getting together with partner in spades.

West's next problem came after North and South arrived at six hearts. He thought about sacrificing at seven clubs but finally came to the right decision and passed. Then he had to make his opening lead.

This did not seem like much of a problem to him. He placed the king of clubs on the table.

South had been having his own problems with the bidding. He had made a fine decision when he went to three hearts after his partner's three diamond overcall but he had almost lied about aces and was tempted to bid five clubs in response to his partner's Blackwood four no-trump.

When he looked at dummy, South wished he had lied. It seemed that East would surely hold the king of hearts and that the slam would go down.

East did hold the guarded king of hearts and if West had opened the ace of spades, South would have been unable to make his contract, but the club lead gave South an extra chance and he took advantage of it.

At trick two South led the jack of hearts but he went up with dummy's ace. Then he proceeded to run off dummy's diamonds and poor East had to follow suit while South jettisoned all his spades.

YESTERYEAR

Yes, Charlie Moore, Pecan Trees Do Grow Hereabouts!

I got off to a bad start in 1967. Almost wrote a letter to the editor.

Everything was fine as I sat smoking my pipe riffling through the Sunday papers until I came to the letter section of the Chicago Tribune.

There was a letter written by Charlie Moore. I don't remember the town he was from. He admitted he was an arborist of the first water, knew all about every tree in the country. He commented on a piece printed the previous Sunday from the last book written by Virginia (Mrs. Herman) Elbert in which she told of the progress of the Talisman, the first steamboat to go up the Sangamon river to what was then called Riverport, near present day River-ton.

In this piece she mentioned the pecan trees growing along the banks of the Sangamon.

Charlie Moore immediately, and positively, stated that she was wrong, that there never was a pecan tree in Illinois.

This riled me up more than somewhat.

Hey, Charlie

First, Virginia Elbert was a naturalist of the first rank, and we all lost a fine person when she died last August. Secondly, here was a guy named Charlie Moore, who claimed he had studied Illinois trees all his life, asserting there never was a pecan tree in Illinois.

So, I went to my typewriter, preparing to write a letter to the editor. But, before I was half finished, I reflected that, at 60, a guy is too old to start such doings; that plenty of other folks would write in, and that they'd be printed in the next Sunday's paper.

And did they write in! The editors selected the letter by Bill Neff, well known Chandlerville sportsman and quail lover, as the best. As soon as he read Moore's letter on the first day of the year he fired off this letter:

Chandlerville, Ill., Jan. 1—If Charlie Moore, who wrote in The Voice of the People today that pecan trees do not grow along the Sangamon and Illinois rivers, would like to drop by, I would be glad to show him some. At one time, pecans yielded considerable income to people living in the communities along the Sangamon. These forests are now mostly corn fields, but lots of pecan trees are left.

In the early part of this century, pecans were gathered by climbers, who whipped the trees with bamboo poles and caught the nuts on canvas spread on the ground below. My father was a pecan buyer. About 1914 he bought $2,400 worth of pecans, and there were three other buyers in Chandlerville. They were shipped in burlap bags by rail to Chicago.

On Sangamon river bottoms, pecan trees grew to enormous sizes. They are also found in upland timber, but there they are not as large as those along the Sangamon river.

WILLIAM D. NEFF

The editors condensed some of the other letters received, and this is how they appeared in the Trib of Jan. 8:

Lake Forest, Jan. 3—When I was a youngster in River-ton, we kids filled our pockets with pecans every fall. The nuts had soft shells and were similar in size, shape, and taste to those grown commercially today.

V. L. Leone

Havana, Ill., Jan. 2—Pecan trees still exist in fairly great abundance in bottom lands bordering both the Sangamon and Illinois rivers. A very good stand is close to the town of Bath, on Grand Island—one of the largest areas of unspoiled loveliness to be found in Illinois today.

Walton P. Hatton

Waukegan, Jan. 2—Outdoor people of that region well know the wild pecan of the Illinois river valley—small, hard-shelled, delicious. In some years, puddle ducks gorged themselves in wet timber on acorns and wild pecans, which they swallowed whole. I have dressed many a mallard whose crop was full of acorns, pecans, and corn.

Wm. K. Sandmeyer

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 2—Pecans not only grow in central Illinois, but are quite common and grow to be large. As a native of Lake county, I still wonder at the vast difference in trees between Sangamon and Lake counties.

S. J. Drury

Chicago, Jan. 1—I shot ducks along the Illinois river for 30 years, and clearly remember gathering pecans on the timbered ridge that lies between the river and Lake Chataqua. In the 20s, boys of high school age gathered the nuts and sold them to local storekeepers. Drainage and flooding have

JHS Rips Lions 75-63 In Capitol

By BUFORD GREEN
Sports Editor

Jacksonville's pressing and fast-breaking Crimsons broke Lanphier's press and roared to an impressive 75-63 Capitol Conference triumph over the Lions, at the JHS Bowl Friday night.

The high-scoring trio of Duane Mounts, Duane Hess and Abe Brown combined for 59 points as the Crimsons broke away from a tight game in the third quarter and continued to pull away for their sixth victory in 11 starts and second loop win in four tries.

The Crimsons had relatively trouble with the Lanphier press, the game that had carried the visitors to nine wins in 13 games and a 2-0 league record, and applied plenty of pressure of its own with a similar tactic.

JHS trailed by as much as seven points in the second quarter before getting red-hot and streaking to a 40-36 halftime edge. From there Hess and Mounts carried the Crimsons to a 12-point bulge in the third stanza. More of the same padded the difference to 21 points late in the final eight minutes.

Mounts Leads Way

Sophomore center Mounts, continuing his improved play of late, threw in 23 points, while Hess added 19, 12 in the second half, and Brown 17. All three left with about three minutes in the contest.

As a team the Crimsons were outlined from the field by 46% to 40%, but boasted a surprising 39-31 domination of the boards. 19-12 offensively. The Crimsons' press forced Lanphier into 22 turnovers. JHS committed 19 mistakes, but few came against the press and several were committed after the second team entered the game.

The lead changed hands five straight times in the opening eight minutes, with Lanphier having good success breaking the JHS press. A late burst of six straight points carried the visitors to a 20-15 lead at the close.

Crimsons Surge
Mounts and Brown led a surge of nine straight Jacksonville points to open the second stanza for a 24-22 JHS advantage. From there the game was tied twice and the lead changed hands four times.

Lanphier opened up a 31-26 lead with 3:25 left in the half, but Brown stole the ball twice for five points and Hess matched it with a three-pointer and JHS shot into a 34-33 lead in the spread of only 30 seconds.

Late buckets by Mounts and Brown carried the Crimsons to a 40-36 halftime lead, although the Lions shot 59% for the half.

Hess Gets Hot
Hess hit four straight corner shots in third round and Mounts added three points as Jacksonville boosted the difference to 55-43 and 55-45 entering the final eight minutes. Lanphier's leading scorer and rebounder Rich Schultz fouled out with 3:00 left in the third stanza.

Lanphier never threatened in the closing chapter, as the Crimsons continued to get the good shots off the Lions' press. The margin mounted to 21 points on buckets by Mounts and freshman Chad Ormiston, 70-49, with 3:07 left in the game.

Dick Clough, Kevin Lawrence, and Pete Gallatin paced the IC scorers with 18, 16, and 14 points respectively, while the Maroons were led by Marty Waldon with 21 points, fourteen of these coming in the first half.

The Blueboys dominated every statistic in the game except rebounding where the Maroons had the edge, 44-37.

A stout IC defense led by forward Charlie Martin, who had 19 rebounds, and Kevin Lawrence forced the Maroons into fifteen turnovers, compared with ten for the Blueboys.

The Maroons came within striking distance once in the game. With the score 14-12 Marty Waldon hit a ten-foot jump shot to knot the score, and give Chicago the only chance of the evening to lead in the game.

Gallatin came right back and scored on two quick baskets to give the Blueboys an 18-14 margin, and a lead they never relinquished, as they led at the half, 33-27.

Clough opened the second half scoring with a free throw with 19:54 remaining, and then the Blueboys started to pull away on three baskets by Gallatin and free throws by Clough and Paul Runkle to make the score 45-33 with 15:37 remaining in the contest.

The Maroons were never to get much of an offense going in the second half, and never got closer than 12 points throughout the rest of the game.

Clough fouled out with 4:18 remaining and if the Maroons were to have a chance at a comeback this was it, but Gallatin hit a 15-foot jumper with 4:03 remaining to give the Blue a 17-point lead 67-50.

Gary Savana rounded out the IC scoring with two free throws, with 14 seconds remaining, to bring the final count to 74-54.

Rabid dogs do not foam at the mouth, as is sometimes believed. The two types of rabies in dogs are classified as dumb and furious, but most rabid dogs show some symptoms of each during the infection and may go from a vicious, excited state to one of depression or even paralysis. Rabies in dogs is not seasonal.
